—Masquerade at the rink to-morrow evening.

—Dr. Daley and wife, of Onio, are visiting at C. A. Ballou's.

—Blanche Melville's Company evidently lost their "grit" last week.

—Come to the mask at the rink Tuesday evening. Admission only twenty-five cents.

—The nights the rink is open are Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Good music each evening.

—We are pleased to note the recovery of Editor Otis, of the Rochelle Register, from his recent severe illness.

—Editor Cobb, of the Sterling Gazette, took tea at the Nachusa on his way home from Springfield last Saturday.

—Mrs. A. Mayer, of Davenport, Iowa, and Mrs. E. Hill, of Rochelle, are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. E. Petersberger.

—We give by telegraph to-day an interesting budget of news, including a synopsis of Beecher's sermon and a scene in Moody's church yesterday.

—H. P. Wicks and family, who have been spending the summer at Abram Brown's place, in South Dixon, have returned to their Chicago home.

—The Springfield Journal refers to the delegation to that city last week as "The Dixon contingent." The Journal has our ardent gratitude for that word. We did not know what to call 'em.

—Ed Kane, conductor on the Sterling passenger, was standing in the baggage car door when a pile of trunks fell against him knocking him from the car and causing such injury as will lay him off a few days.

—Edward P. Maxwell and Miss Birdie Pleman were married this afternoon by Rev. John Wilkinson. The affair was without ostentation, only relatives being present. The couple left for Beatrice, Nebraska, this afternoon. The young couple have the very best wishes of THE TELEGRAPH.

—There will be a meeting at the M. E. church this evening for the purpose of organizing "The Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle." This is not to be an association with a membership confined to any particular church or class, but all are invited to join.

—The Springfield newspapers had much to say concerning the recent excursion by Dixon to the State capital and here is a specimen from the Journal: "The Dixon contingent spent the day in sight-seeing about the Capitol and various points of interest in the city. They may be fairly counted to give up and abandon their claims in favor of our beautiful city, they were loud in its praises last evening."

Hyer Sisters.

—The Hyer Sisters Comic Opera Company will present "Out of Bondage" at the Opera House Wednesday, Oct. 21st. The company is well known in this city, having been here several times in concert. Robinson, the great comedian, formerly with Callender's Minstrels, furnishes wit. Reserved seats fifty cents, now sale at Maxwell's.

W. C. T. U.

THIRD ANNUAL CONVENTION IN LEE COUNTY.

FULL REPORT.

On Thursday, the fifteenth instant, the Annual Convention of the Lee County W. C. T. U. met in the M. E. church of Dixon, at nine o'clock a. m., Miss M. A. Hill, of Lee Centre, President, of the County organization, in the chair. After devotional exercises and the reading of the Journal of last year's convention the following committees were appointed: On Nominations, Mrs. Mingle, of Amboy; Mrs. DeShon and Mrs. Ira Lewis, of Dixon. On credentials, Mrs. James Todd, Mrs. A. J. Lilly. On resolutions and plan of work, Mrs. Mingle, Amboy; Mrs. Backus, Rockford; Mrs. Andrews, Dixon; Mrs. Brewer, Ashton; Mrs. Keeling, Amboy; Miss Hill, Lee Centre; Mrs. Palmer, Walton; Mrs. Huff, Sterling. On motion, visitors were admitted to all the rights of members of the convention, with the exception of voting on the election of county officers. The Address of Welcome was delivered by Mrs. Andrews, of Dixon, and responded by Miss M. A. Hill, of Lee Centre. The convention then listened to reports from Ashton, Amboy, Paw Paw, Stewart, Harmon, Walton, Lee Centre and Dixon. Interesting remarks were made by Mrs. Wilkins, of Rockford, on the work of the W. C. T. U. Mrs. Ira Lewis, Dixon, read a paper written by Mrs. R. L. Shaw, of Lee Centre, on "Gospel Temperance." After a consecration service, led by Mrs. Backus, the convention adjourned to meet at 1:30 p. m.

THE AFTERNOON SESSION.

Opened with a song and praise service led by Mrs. Keeling, of Amboy. Mrs. Wilkins addressed the audience in the interests of the Union Signal, organ of the National W. C. T. U. and the Illinois Workshop, organ of the State W. C. T. U. Mrs. S. E. Huff, of Sterling, spoke on "Band of Hope Work." An animated discussion followed in which methods and progress of the work were ably presented by Mrs. Mingle, Mrs. Backus, Mrs. Cady, Mrs. Rounds, and others. The State Superintendent of Evangelistic Work, Mrs. Backus, read an interesting paper concerning her department. On motion, a meeting was announced for Friday evening at 7:45, to give Mrs. Rounds an opportunity to address the young people of Dixon on the temperance work. Miss H. E. Garrison, M. D., addressed the convention on "Hygiene and Heredity." The subject of "Finance" was discussed by Mrs. Wilkins, Treasurer State Union. Report of nominating committee heard and approved. On motion the following County officers were elected by acclamation: Miss M. A. Hill, Lee Centre, President and Mrs. A. J. Lilly, Dixon, Secretary and Treasurer. Report of committee on resolutions and plan of work was received and the following resolutions adopted by the convention.

"Acknowledging our dependence upon the Divine Father, the W. C. T. U. of Lee County, in Convention assembled at Dixon, resolve

1st. That, as far as practicable, we will carry on the Plan of Work as adopted by the State Union, and inasmuch as the object of our organization is to utterly rout our enemy, the liquor traffic, root and branch, we will use every available weapon to accomplish that end.

2nd. Believing that local work can best be done through thorough county organization, we propose the continuance of our county officers and would recommend that our county President devote as much time as possible to county work, receiving as remuneration all that may be taken up in collections in the different places to which she may be called, the county defraying her expenses to and fro. This resolution not to interfere with the pledge made by the local unions to the district.

3rd. That we extend our profound thanks to the people of Dixon for their hearty reception of this convention and the grand preparation they have made for our comfort. To the young ladies for their kindness in presiding over the bountiful meals served to the workers in this convention, hoping that this will be their initiative step to their entering the temperance work; To the Trustees of the M. E. church for the use of their beautiful house of worship; To the ministering brethren who have given their presence; To the ladies who decorated the church so beautifully, thus giving us all a new idea in regard to using all of the beautiful gifts of our beneficent Father, in most effective manner; To the ladies of Polo for the loan of their beautiful banner; lastly, to our loving Father for the evidence of His blessed presence during the several sessions of this, the third convention of Lee County.

On motion the convention adjourned to meet at 7:30 p. m.

THE EVENING SESSION

Began with music by the choir. Prayer was offered by Rev. Cady, and the Scriptures read by Rev. Andrews. After another song, by the choir, Mrs. L. S. Rounds delivered an eloquent and practical temperance address. Adjourned to meet on Friday, the 16th at nine o'clock a. m.

FRIDAY MORNING.

The session on Friday morning began with devotional exercises led by Mrs. E. C. Sickels. Little Miss Ruth Wilkins gave a bright recitation which took the convention by storm. Miss Hill read a paper, "History of Temperance." A "Question Box" was started and Mrs. Rounds, assisted by various members of the convention, spent a half hour in discussion of questions presented by ladies present. "Lines of Work" of the W. C. T. U. was the subject of an interesting talk by Mrs. Rounds. The convention passed a vote of thanks to Mrs. Backus and Mrs. Wilkins, of Rockford, and Mrs. Herrick, of Polo, for their valuable assistance in the convention work. The time and place of the next convention was left to the Executive Board.

After prayer, by Mrs. Backus, and singing of the Doxology, the convention adjourned, Rev. Andrews pronouncing the benediction.

On Friday evening a Y. W. C. T. U. was organized in Dixon through the efforts of Mrs. Rounds and others.

Mrs. A. J. LILLY, Co. Sec.

"We must acknowledge the Hyer Sisters Comic Opera Company takes the cake. They gave the best entertainment last evening, in the Grand Opera House, that has visited our city for years."—Bloomington Eye.

—There was a skating contest at the Franklin rink, Saturday evening, at which Fred Davis, of this city, got away with the Franklin champions in good shape, making the best time yet made in that rink, five miles in twenty-four minutes. A premium of five dollars was awarded. Fred is one of the EVENING TELEGRAPH carrier boys, and therefore, we have an especial interest in him.

—THE EVENING TELEGRAPH desires to call particular attention to the entertainment to be given tomorrow evening at the Universalist Church by the "Band of Hope." It is not necessary to explain to any reader of this paper the object of this organization; nor need we state that no more noble mission has been vouchsafed to man, than that of originating, and keeping in operation, this young temperance society of young children. It is temperance at the foundation, and in the right place. The little folks are making preparation for a pleasant evening, and their good work should be liberally patronized by our people.

The special-delivery feature of the post system fails to pay in the smaller offices. Only one letter of the class was received at Keokuk in a week. Most postmasters report that messengers have not earned $3 in six days. It is thought that the special delivery will have to be confined to free-delivery offices, where substitute carriers can be employed.

William C. Glenn, a son of the postmaster at Rochelle, Ill., has been lodged in jail at Chicago to be arraigned for using the mails for fraudulent purposes. He had several forms of letter-heads, and assumed different names in ordering rare postage stamps from dealers, giving bogus references. When dunning letters arrived, he secured and destroyed them. He thus managed to obtain nearly $900 worth of rare stamps without paying a cent, and has also confessed the theft of a registered package containing $500.

LURED TO SLAUGHTER.

A DEADLY BLUNDER ON THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILWAY.

Incorrect Signals Cause a Frightful Accident—Ten Killed and More Than Fifty Wounded—Horrible Scenes—A Crash in a Fog.

JERSEY CITY, N. Y., Oct. 19.—A train of the Pennsylvania railroad containing 500 emigrants was run into today at Jersey City by a passenger train between Jersey City and Newark. The emigrant train left Jersey City for the west at 6:15 p. m. Sunday. There were 800 passengers aboard, mostly Norwegians. At the time the two trains met, the train was detained by wrong signals of the operators. The train was followed by the emigrant express which crashed into the emigrant train wrecking the rear car and killing ten people outright. Many others were seriously injured. The scene was one of extraordinary confusion, and the cries of those who were wounded were pitiful. The accident occurred on the Hackensack bridge, which caught fire shortly afterward, and lighted up the scene for hours.

The news of the dreadful catastrophe was at once telegraphed to this city, and a relief train with physicians and bandages was quickly dispatched to the scene. The fire department was sent out. The dead and wounded were brought back to this city.

After the southern express ran into the emigrant train, a Lehigh Valley train from the south crashed into the wreck. The caboose and two cars were thrown across the other track, and a Lehigh Valley train coming north, crashed into them, wrecking the engine and completely demolishing the cars.

It is said the number of wounded is between fifty and seventy-five.

Mr. Joseph E. Smith, of the firm of the Brewster Carriage Manufactory, and his wife were passengers on the Lehigh Valley train. He said to a reporter: "Our train was running, I should judge, thirty miles an hour. There were seven cars. The collision occurred at 8:30 o'clock, a few moments after we had left East Newark. We felt a sudden shock that threw the passengers from their seats and then there came the crashing of timber, mingled with the screams and groans of women. A terrifying scene followed. No one knew exactly what had happened and in the confusion a scramble was made for the doors. Our train immediately came to a standstill. Many were injured in getting out of the cars, but so far as we could learn, none seriously. A frightful scene was presented by the wrecked cars. They lay in a heap across both tracks and down the embankment, which is fully twenty feet in height. The bodies of the dead and wounded lay about in the most horrible form. Some were buried beneath heaps of broken timber; others lay unburied about the track. One woman's head was cut completely off. The head rolled down the embankment, while the mangled body lay between the tracks. It was almost pitch dark and foggy, and the only light was that of the fire which enveloped the baggage-car of the western express. The wailing of the suffering could be heard for blocks away. In justice to our conductors, I will say that they ran very carefully from East Newark."

The train men, many of whom received more or less injuries, ran higher and thinner with lanterns, helping to extricate those who were pinned down by the cars. The passengers who escaped alive gave great assistance. When the relief train arrived, the dead and injured were laid in the cars and the train moved slowly back to Jersey City. The physicians went about bandaging and applying restoratives. Hardly any of the emigrants could speak English and their cries to one another were incoherent.

As near as can be ascertained, the list of killed and wounded is as follows: Unknown man about 40 years of age; at least was completely torn from his body, and both his arms were broken. Unknown woman about 25 years of age; her head was severed from her neck, and her body was covered with bruises. Unknown boy about 12 years of age; both his legs were broken, and his skull was fractured. Unknown girl about 15 years old; her skull was fractured. Unknown woman about 35 years of age, on her way to her father at Madison, Wis.; both her legs were broken and her skull fractured; she was brought to the depot alive, but died five minutes after reaching St. Francis hospital. Miriam Klingner, head and body bruised. Laura Malan, head and legs cut; likely to die. Christian Wyagren, 1 Bodstadt. Carl Henry Grommer, a Norwegian, aged 36; Mrs. Karl H. Grommer, aged 33; and William Grommer, aged 8, are among the dead.

E. W. Urterath, conductor of the emigrant train, arm broken. Stewart A. Bowers, fireman of the Lehigh Valley train, South Elston, Pa., married, scalp wound. Owen Hall, engineer of the Lehigh Valley train, Easton, Pa., 35 years old, fracture of foot and arm. These men taken to St. Francis hospital unconscious. Ralph Curry, aged 29 years, internal injuries. Christian Y. Basin, a Norwegian, 35 years old, right leg fractured in two places.

Crushed in a Fog.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 19.—The Chicago express on the northern division of the Boston & Lowell railroad collided in a thick fog at 3 a. m. between East and West Andover, with a section of the express freight, which had become detached from the regular train and was hurrying by special engine to catch up with the latter at West Andover. Both trains were running about thirty miles an hour. There was a terrible crash. Both engines were turned end over end down an embankment. Both firemen jumped and escaped with severe bruises. L. Grave, of Concord, engineer of the passenger train, J. Perittout of Concord, engineer of the freight train, and E. Harvey, of Lebanon, brakeman, were all instantly killed. Their bodies were found terribly mangled. Passenger being completely cut in two. The mail and baggage cars were also crushed, and William Wagon, of Concord, express messenger, was caught between the train and the express engine and was killed. The news had not yet been heard until late out an crusher. His injuries are serious. Will. H. Turner, of Lebanon, baggage-master, a leg broken and was otherwise injured. The passengers miraculously escaped. Four surgeons were sent from this city. The damage to stock is $10,000. There had run a locomotive for a third of a century. The passenger train had the right of way.

Feats of the Cyclists.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—The successful wheelmen of Saturday's meet of the Chicago Bicycle association were: Van Sicklin, 20 miles, 1 hour, 4 minutes, 9 1/2 seconds, (no competition); Neilson, 2-mile professional, 1:04 1/2; Webster of Chicago, 1 mile, for the championship, 3:04 1/2; Neilson, 5-mile professional, 14:45 1/2.

THE ORIENTAL SITUATION.

Servia's Invasion—Turkey's Peremptory Note—Bismarck's Interposition.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Owing to the publication, Saturday, of dispatches received by the Servian minister in London to the effect that the Servian army had made no advance across the frontier, and that King Milan was still in Nissa engaged in reviewing his forces, the belief became current that the Servian government had decided on a policy of peace, or at least had determined to postpone the beginning of hostilities. This opinion was shattered by the receipt of late advices stating that Servian troops have occupied the Roshia pass. This important point is on the Jerna river, and lies partly in Turkish territory, being on the Bulgarian-Macedonian frontier. Its occupation by Russia, taken in connection with the report current in Vienna that King Milan had issued his expected war manifesto, is deemed of very grave importance.

Bismarck Applies the Choker.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The Standard's Berlin correspondent telegraphs as follows: "Russia and Austria being hopelessly unable to agree upon a settlement of the Balkan difficulty, Prince Bismarck, moved by a determination to prevent war, interposed. This action of Germany has resulted in an agreement between the three powers to restore outwardly the status quo in Bulgaria, and Servia and Greece will probably be choked."

Anarchy Prevails in Burmah.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The Times has information that complete anarchy prevails in Burmah. It is expected at Mandalay that the Dacoit tribes will storm the city. The inhabitants are intensely excited and so hostile a feeling is shown toward all foreigners that their wholesale massacre is feared. The Italian consul at Mandalay has been threatened with imprisonment for interposing in behalf of his fellow countrymen.

Facts That Cause Speculation.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—A large contract was signed on Friday to supply coal to the English fleet in Turkish waters. This fact, coupled with the announcement that Russia is making every possible effort to increase the strength of her navy, causes much speculation here.

The Sultan Grows Peremptory.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 19.—The porte has sent a second and peremptory note to Servia and Greece demanding a prompt explanation of the war preparations in those countries.

TALKING OF PRISON REFORM.

The National Association Meeting—Prominent Peoples' Opinions.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 19.—The meetings of the National Prison Reform association were opened in Whitney's opera house Saturday night by prayer offered by Father Reilly, of St. Patrick's church, and an address of welcome made by Judge Campbell, of the Michigan supreme bench. Ex-President Hayes was the principal speaker of the evening. After speaking of the purposes of the association he deplored the uneven, and oftentimes lax, administration of penal laws as the greatest source of crime. He urged the application of civil service rules to the selection of prison officials and the payment of good salaries to officers of penal institutions as necessary to the proper conduct of prisons. In conclusion, he advised, as one of the preventives of crime, industrial education of youth by the state.

Secretary Rounds read a letter from President Cleveland regretting his inability to attend the meetings. Addresses were delivered by Professor Francis Wayland, of the Yale law-school. Senator James, of Florida, and Senator Palmer, who presided at the session.

Bishop Charles T. Robertson, of St. Louis, preached before the association Sunday in St. Paul's church. The pastors of other churches preached on topics connected with the work of the association. Public exercises were held at the opera house Sunday evening. Bishop Harris, of Detroit; Bishop Gillespie, of Grand Rapids; the Rev. Dr. Henderson, of Detroit; the Rev. F. H. Wines, secretary of the Illinois state board of charities; the Dr. A. G. Byers, of Columbus, secretary of the Ohio state board of corrections, and charities; Gen. R. Brinkerhoff, of Ohio, and the Rev. Dr. Grey, dean of the Harvard Theological school, made addresses.

Base Ball Managers in Session.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The conference of base ball managers Saturday night resulted in a harmonious settlement of all questions at issue between the League and the American association. It was decided that the Detroit, Buffalo and Providence clubs should remain in the League for the season of 1890, and that White, Richardson, Brothers and Rowe, the "big four," are held by the League and will be open to contract. An agreement between the League and American association was adopted, which provides that no contract with a player shall stand for a longer period than from April to Oct. 13, and that no player shall be paid more than $2,000 per season.

A Stand Against the Boycotters.

CORR., Oct. 19.—A special meeting of the Local Defense union was held Saturday night. Reports were read showing that through the efforts of the agents of the union, boycotting has been materially checked. A resolution was passed establishing a financial branch of the union in London, and amid much enthusiasm it was resolved to equip a strong force of farmers, who will travel through the country, shoe the horses of boycotted farmers and attend cattle sales for the purpose of buying boycotted cattle, paying fair London price therefor.

AT THE TABLE.

A LITTLE ADVICE TO THE OMNIVOROUS HUMAN BIPED.

Dyspepsia an Affair of the Mouth Rather Than the Stomach—Some Plain Talk—A Few Rules of Caution.

[J. M. Granville, M. D., in Youth's Companion.]

The great and grievous prevalence of dyspepsia among Americans is beyond question in part due to their outrageously unphysiological custom of sipping cold water, and above all, iced water, before and during meals. The cold water cracks the enamel of the teeth and causes them to decay. American dentists excel all other dental surgeons in building up solid structures of gold to replace the teeth, but that is because the American people outrun all other people in the celerity with which they destroy their natural teeth, and it is the cold, or iced, water that does it.

MASTICATION. The mouth prepares the food for the process of digestion, and that function really commences with the taking of the victuals between the lips and teeth. The stomach is, practically, a warm chamber, into which the food is received after it has been masticated and mixed with the secretion from the salivary glands, and if the food is not cut up small enough to be readily dissolved, or it has not been sufficiently mixed with an adequate quantity of the fluid which the glands of the mouth secrete, it will decompose instead of being digested, with the result of pains, flatulency and dyspepsia.

As soon as the food is taken between the lips, the task of preparation begins. The morsel is examined, so to say, by tongue and teeth as to its nature and properties. If the sense of taste be acute and natural, that is not blunted by the thickening or deadening effects of chronic inflammation, such as may be set up either by neglect of the teeth and the presence of tartar at their backs, by the habitual use of irritating condiments, or the abuse of lozenges and jujubes taken "for the throat"—a most pernicious practice—or by too much smoking, or the use of undiluted spirits, the presence of anything not fit for food will be readily detected.

CHILDREN'S EATING.

Children possess this faculty of self-protection by taste in a high degree, and those who live the simplest lives retain it the longest. For the sake of health we ought to be careful to preserve the function of taste as long as possible, and in an unsophisticated state. To this end very hot or very cold, very acid or very sweet, things ought to be avoided, and a habit should be formed and maintained of making nice discriminations of taste as to what we eat and drink. This will have the double effect of developing taste and of preventing the hasty swallowing of food, than which no fault of habit is more mischievous.

It is the fashion to say, "Children bolt their food," but as a matter of fact they do not do so until they have been corrupted by the bad example of their elders, or until the habit has been induced by loose discipline in the conduct of meals. In the nursery, and in the living-room of adult life, meals ought never to be short, and on no account hurried. Children should not be allowed to swallow their food in haste to get to play, and men and women should never hasten through a meal to return to business or enter upon pleasure. Health—without which life is a burden, and certainly not worth living—requires that the omnivorous human biped should cut his food with his front teeth, crush it with his middle teeth, and grind it with his back teeth, and to do this he must eat in a leisurely manner, and even with some thought of what he is doing.

AN IMPORTANT MATTER.

The mouth process includes the admixture of the saliva with the food, and this is a matter of very high importance. There can be no doubt that the fluid secreted by the glands situated around the mouth is, in the human subject at least, designed to aid the process of digestion. Besides merely moistening the food in the mouth it helps to convert the starch—and potatoes and rice are wholly starch, and most other vegetables to a great extent "starchy"—into sugar.

With a view to enable this process to be properly performed, the food should be allowed to remain in the mouth until it has become thoroughly incorporated with the fluid which that cavity contains during food taking. And here I must take heart to speak very plainly on the subject of this unphysiological waste of the saliva which is caused by frequent smoking. Men who carry a cigar or cigarette in the mouth between meals and indulge in spitting must suffer from indigestion. They are not only throwing away one of the tributary fluids of the process, but they are so debilitating the salivary glands that the secretion they pour out is itself impoverished or perverted.

Without making any pretense of setting out the physiology of digestion, it is thus easy to make plain, and recognize, the fact that dyspepsia is—and must be—an affair of the mouth rather than the stomach. The role the mouth plays in the performance of alimentary is the initial one, and upon the manner in which it is achieved depends what comes afterwards.

RULES OF CAUTION.

The question I have now to ask is, does the reader believe what I am trying to tell him? If he does, it only remains to say, "Look to your teeth." "Slowly masticate your food, first cutting it with the front teeth, then crushing it with the jaw, and lastly grinding it with the large, rough, back teeth," and further, "See that you do not depreciate the quality, or by waste diminish the quantity, of the saliva."

These are not difficult rules of caution to observe. Yet I am very certain that if they were accepted and acted upon, dyspepsia would be a rare disease. In any case let the young especially lay to heart the lesson that I have tried to teach, and so much advantage to health will accrue that the stomachs of the next generation will find it far less difficult than ours do to discharge their daily duty.

PLEASURE AND PIETY.

PLYMOUTH'S PASTOR DISCOURSES OF THEIR RELATIONS.

A Word or Two on Training Young Women to Begin with—Importance of Good Cooking—Moody Becomes too Personal.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—In reading a notice Sunday morning of a concert to be given for the benefit of the Working Girl's society, Mr. Beecher after describing the object of the society to be the education of working girls in useful branches of knowledge, such as dressmaking, cooking, typewriting, millinery, etc., said:

Of dressmaking there is no need for me to speak. It comes by nature, in all the efforts that are being made now to economize, and to lift up the ignorant and the working classes of the community, there are a great many fundamental elements that must go in, but the one neglected element of economy is cooking! It is astounding to think what sort of things we have to eat, and in what condition. I consider the kitchen as being the devil's own organized kingdom against the kingdom of health in the human family. The want of economy springing from the want of knowledge; the gross food, the greasy food, the want of delicacy and of regard for the finer elements of health and life—it is amazing, it is pitious, it is heathenish. The heathens live better than we do oftentimes in that regard. We do not want any French morality, but we should like some French cuisine.

Typewriting is very important, and opens one of those quiet occupations for women that we desire very much to see extended. One of the great questions of the day, and especially in cities, is what occupations are open to single women—or married women for that matter—but especially for maidens, by which they can obtain an honest livelihood without breaking down their health; and typewriting, the sewing machine, telegraphing, copying, under suitable limitations, open a great many varieties to old-fashioned notions of industry. It is a good thing for girls to learn them, if they never use them. We are all the time rising up and breaking down. One of the most piteous and universal spectacles that addresses your eyes, and mine, is that of refined and educated women who have to the middle of their life been affluently supplied, and in the bankruptcy of their husbands, or on their death, find themselves obliged to maintain themselves and their families. "What can we do?" they cry. The number of things that a woman can do can easily be counted, and I hold that a part of family education should be to have a substructure of effective working knowledge by which they might maintain themselves under reversed circumstances.

There is no part of society which has in it more good, there is no part of it more easily assailable, and that deliquesces easier, than young womanhood. There is no class of which more drops by the road, and that constitute so large an element in the stream of death and damnation that rolls down through the streets of our great cities, and any attempt to meet their wants and to anticipate the disasters which easily fall to them, will be certainly of the mind and heart of Jesus.

Mr. Beecher took for his text the parable in the 14th chapter of Luke (the story of the rejected invitations to the feast), and remarked that the origin of the parable was the idea Christ had been laying down in the verses before the text—disinterestedness in everything. That is, a man must not give expecting to receive in return, in his social relation. Mr. Beecher then referred to the current view of religion as being a solemn duty, and declared that it was a pleasure, and continued:

There are very few men that reject religion outright. They do reject doctrines outright—they ought to be honored for it, many of them. They do reject church economies. They do reject certain forms of church life; as it is called, religious life. They are not to their taste; they are not to their judgment; they are not to their conscience. But there are very few men who reject that which all these things mean, or strive to represent. The emancipation of one's reason and sensibilities from the thrall of animalism, pride and passion—that is being a Christian. It is living by a man's reason, a man's moral sensibilities, and living in them in such a way as that he shall have control.

Then comes the excuse of social pleasures. There is an impression that there is an inextinguishable feud between joy and lightness of heart in society, and religion. But I tell you religion runs from the very highest sounds that are given by the whistling sprites of that organ to the very thunder of the bass. There is not one single range of sound that is not necessary to religion, there is not one single element that is right for any man, that is not, by double reason, right for a Christian man. A man has the right to all the earth if he is the heir of God. You didn't make mirth; God made it and put it in you. You didn't make imagination; God made it and put it in you to be exercised. You did not make all forms of humor and wit, and sparkling gaieties; God made them, and meant them to be developed in men. God made everything that is grand in heroism; everything that is sublime in oratory; everything that is ravishing in music; everything that is exquisite in the interplay of social sympathies, and in the life of innocent joy, for and in pleasure. He made them all for you, and He only says, accept them in their higher relation, and use them for Him, for time and for eternity as well.

The whole round of pleasure in life is not to be criticized because it is pleasure, but because it is low pleasure, leaving out the higher elements of taste. A man that could sit in that organ gallery and play a jews-harp represents a man who stands denying religion. He has got a few base pleasures that he says he can't give up, can't spare.

Bring to you the overtures of the Gospel, and say, it is a feast spread; the food is angels' food, the service is honorable service, the remunerations here are ample, for Godliness is profitable in the life that now is, as well as in that which is to come, and the reversion, "Lay up your treasure in Heaven."

"ME AND THE OLD WOMAN."

A Little Scene at One of Moody's Meetings.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The Broome Street tabernacle was well filled Sunday to hear Moody and Sankey. Mr. Moody announced that his sermon would be for the poor sinner whose unworthiness had held him from seeking salvation. Glancing around the church his eye fell upon a man and woman in tattered garments, who occupied seats directly beneath the pulpit. Leaning over the edge of the platform Mr. Moody pointed to the man and said:

"Thank God that one poor sinner has been brought to hear the word to-day. It is for him and others who are steeped in misery and vice that the gospel is preached. May you listen to the story of our Savior's salvation and go away a better man."

At this point the object of Mr. Moody's remarks arose unsteadily from his seat, and with his clenched fist in the air said: "I don't want you pick me out that way."

"Oh, well, God has only singled you out for His grace," replied the preacher.

"How do you know that, seeing you ain't Him?" asked the man.

"I'd rather stay here alone with you and drive out all the rest of these self-righteous folks," said Mr. Moody.

"Well, that's all right, but I don't want you to point me or the old woman out any more," remarked the man as he sat down.

After this the allusions to the sinners present were less personal, and in a few moments both the man and the woman were fast asleep. At the sound of "Bring in the Sheaves" they were both awakened and joined heartily in the hymn.

COLLIERS AND COAL OPERATORS.

Friendly Conference in Chicago to Discuss Their Relations.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—The conference of miners and mine owners closed its second and last day's work at Plasterers' hall Saturday afternoon. A resolution was passed recommending the operators to pay their men winter wages in all cases where their contracts did not prevent their doing so. A series of resolutions were adopted setting forth the necessity of harmony between operators and miners; condemning strikes and lockouts as brutal resorts for the adjustment of differences, and opposed to the spirit of American institutions; recommending friendly conferences and boards of arbitration; favoring liberal wages and decent treatment of all workmen, and winding up with a glowing tribute to honest labor, the backbone of the nation, which deserved "not the wages of European pauperism, but those of generous reward." The resolutions were signed by W. P. Read, H. L. Sweet and D. C. Jones, on behalf of the operators, and Christopher Evans, Daniel McLaughlin and J. B. Fleming on behalf of the men. In accordance with the spirit of the resolutions it was resolved that a general conference of operators and workmen should be held in Pittsburgh the third Tuesday in December.

A REAL ESTATE BOOMER'S FALL.

Ben Blanchard, of Terre Haute, Ind., Not To Be Found.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 19.—Ben Blanchard, a large real estate dealer, land excursion agent, and speculator, has failed. Some estimate his shortage at $150,000. The entire police force and several constables are searching for him. When last heard from he was south of the city. Blanchard did a large real estate business, having offices here and in Chicago. He was a heavy advertiser and seemed—and claimed—to be doing an immense business. It is not known how many farmers and others are involved in his operations, and will lose all they have invested with him, but the number is likely to be very great.

Fire Caused by Electricity.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19.—The central telephone station of the Bell company, situated on the fourth and fifth floors of the Third National bank, 413 Olive street, took fire Sunday night, and the flames took complete possession of the upper floors. The fire was controlled within thirty minutes after its discovery. The fifth floor, which is the operating room for the central station, was completely gutted. The loss to the telephone company will not exceed $5,000, which is covered by insurance. Loss on building, $10,000; insured. The cause of the fire was the contact of a telephone with an electric light wire, the current burning the wooden supports within the cupola and then spreading to the ceiling of the operating room. The fire burned away the cupola before it was discovered.

Bad County for Homicides.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 19.—About 11 o'clock, Saturday night, as the Tasker brothers were returning from a shooting-match at Haydentown, ten miles distant, they stopped at the house of Ira Tate, a young married man. One of the brothers threw a stone through the window. This awakened Tate, who sprang from his bed, seized a shot-gun, and came to the window. At that moment Kel Tasker hurled a club at Tate, which missed him and knocked his wife down. Tate fired the gun, killing Kel Tasker instantly. Tate came to Uniontown and gave himself up. This is the sixth homicide that has occurred in Fayette county inside a month.

Big Blaze in an Illinois Town.

CARROLLTON, Ill., Oct. 19.—An explosion occurred in the grocery store of John Rainey, situated in the rear of the Levy block, on the northeast corner of the square, and in a few minutes it was ablaze. This communicated with the Levy block, which was soon engulfed in flame, and for a time it seemed that the entire east side of the square was doomed. The wind blew briskly from the north, and all efforts to stay the blaze seemed fruitless until 4 o'clock, when there came a lull in the breeze, and the devastating element was stayed in the Sharon building, adjoining the Levy block on the south. Loss, about $55,000; partly insured.

Social Prospect at the White House.

WASHINGTON CITY, Oct. 19.—The latest information from Miss Cleveland is to the effect that she will not return to Washington before the middle of next month and meantime her sister, Mrs. Hoyt, will remain temporary mistress of the White House. There will be no festivities at the White House until after New Years, when the social season begins here, but Miss Cleveland will have certain days in the week for receiving her friends and acquaintances.

Dimmick Recommended to Mercy.

BUFFALO, Oct. 19.—The jury in the case of the people vs. Lorenzo Dimmick, who is charged with grand larceny in defrauding the Thames and Mersey Insurance company by transferring insurance originally placed in other companies to that company, after vessels and cargoes had been reported lost, after being out twelve hours, rendered a verdict of guilty with a recommendation to mercy. An appeal will be taken. Dimmick is out on bail.

Meeting of Base Ball Men.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Base ball committees from the National league and American association met Friday at noon, in the Fifth Avenue Hotel. The conference was a secret one and the results are expected to be of great importance to the diamond field. As far as could be ascertained no conclusions were reached before adjournment until evening. The object is the settlement of the differences between the league and association and the regulation of internal affairs of both.

New York Horse Show.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The managers of the National Horse Show association, whose third annual exhibition will be held at Madison Square garden, beginning Nov. 3, are in a comfortable frame of mind. Assistant Manager Dannel said Saturday that the number of horses entered was 412, against 381 last year. As many of the horses are entered in more than one class, the number of entries far exceeds that of any exhibition yet held. The quality of the stock entered is superior, and there will be the greatest show of trotters ever brought together in an exhibition of this kind.

General Favors Given Out.

WASHINGTON CITY, Oct. 17.—The president made the following appointments Friday: To be consul general of the United States; Benjamin F. Bonham, of Oregon, at Calcutta. To be United States consul; William A. Garesche, of Missouri, at Martinique; Carl Foerster, of Indiana, at Eberfeld; N. J. Arbeloy, of Tennessee, at Jerusalem. Ernest B. Baldwin, of Missouri, to be deputy first auditor of the treasury. Henry K. West, of Ohio, to be agent of the Indians of the Fort Pack agency in Montana, and Samuel W. Langinore, of Montana, to be register of the land office at Helena, M. T.; Horatio S. Howell, of Montana, to be receiver of public moneys at Helena, M. T.

An Aged Chaplain Badly Injured.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 17.—Friday morning Rev. Lester Williams, aged 60, the chaplain of the jail in this city, was pushed by a Boston & Albany switch engine from the dry bridge in West Springfield, and fell fourteen feet to the street below. His injuries may terminate fatally.

Veterans, Take Notice.

WASHINGTON CITY, Oct. 17.—The second comptroller of the treasury has decided that the government can not retain any part of a soldier's or sailor's local bounty, upon his discharge, and that in cases where this has been done the amount retained must be refunded.

The Persian Mission.

WASHINGTON CITY, Oct. 19.—A letter has been written to Mr. Fred Winston, of Chicago, tendering him the mission to Persia. It is understood that he will accept. Darius Lagore, of Illinois, has been appointed a special timber agent of the interior department. The president has appointed James N. Childs, of Maine, to be United States consul at Guelph, Canada, and James H. Trumbull to be United States consul at Talcahuano, Chile.

Impatient for the Hanging.

FRANKLIN, Ohio, Oct. 19.—Frederick Greiner was hanged here Saturday for the murder of his sweet heart. He grew impatient at waiting and sent for the sheriff, and when the time came stepped on the scaffold with a smile and smoking a cigar. He looked as if he had prepared for an evening party. The execution was well managed, and death took place almost instantaneously.

Still After the Bell Telephone.

WASHINGTON CITY, Oct. 19.—The United States attorney for the Western District of Tennessee, Mr. H. W. McCorrey, has renewed his application to the department of justice to test the validity of the Bell Telephone patent, and a similar application has been made by the Washington Telephone company of Baltimore, and both applications have been referred to the interior department for investigation.

An Important Suit Commenced.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 19.—In the circuit court Saturday, Mackey, Nisbet & Heilman brought suit against the bondholder and trustees of the Richmond & Southeastern road to have the bonds of said road, amounting to $300,000, sold and the proceeds applied to liquidating the liabilities of the consolidated road known as the Louisville, Evansville & St. Louis. DR. CARPENTER'S CALCULI RESOLVENT

VALUABLE DISCOVERY.

Bright's Disease, Gravel, and all Liver and Kidney Diseases,

the result of Calculi or Stone composed of carbonates of lime and magnesia, etc., precipitated in the vital organs by the elimination of the carbonic acid gas from our drinking water and vegetables, which contain these carbonates in large quantities.

UTERINE INFLAMMATION and other diseases of females have the same aggravating cause. Calculi also form in the Hepatic Duct causing derangement of the Liver and introducing a train of Stomach Diseases, as Dyspepsia, accompanied by Sour Stomach and Impure Breath. Other results of Calculi are Pains in the Back and Limbs, Neuralgia, Rheumatism and General Lassitude accompanied by derangement of the vital and secretory organs. These Calculi are the same (with the addition of uric acid) as the deposits found in every teakettle. Calculi Resolvent disintegrates and causes them to pass away in fine particles without injury to the organs themselves, and cures the resultant disease, a result long sought by medical science, but never before attained.

FOR THOSE WHO WAIT.

"SEMI-OFFICIAL" STATEMENT OF CLEVELAND'S INTENTIONS

Regarding the Disposal of the Offices—
The Ohio Election—Careless Republican Officials Mix Things at Columbus—From Cincinnati.

WASHINGTON CITY, Oct. 19.—It is believed to be the intention of President Cleveland to complete, as far as possible,
his list of appointments previous to the assembling of congress. Respecting the president's intentions in the matter of making changes, a writer in The Capital, Sunday, gives what purports to be a semi-official statement of the executive on the subject.
The story runs as follows:

The president explained to a visitor the other day, and the visitor repeated his words to me, that whenever vacancies occurred or good cause was shown to justify removals, he would appoint Democrats to office, and the best Democrat that could be found. The tenure of office law was recognized so far as was consistent with the efficiency of the civil service, and his party must be patient and wait for vacancies to occur.

He was a Democrat, the president said,
and as a Democrat believed that such a policy would not only be recognized by the people—whose respect and confidence he valued—as a proper one for him to pursue,
but he believed it would strengthen the Democracy more in the end than hustling all the Republicans out of office and hustling Democrats in. He was willing to recognize that political services entitled
those who performed them to the honors that were won by their efforts, but such men should seek elective offices, and not expect to find their rewards in the patronage
of the executive.

He did not object to receiving applications
for appointment, but rather desired them.
The more numerous the better, as they gave him a larger field to choose from, and made it easier to find good men; but he did object, and seriously, too, to the unreasonable
pressure that was often brought upon him
to appoint some particular man to an office
to which he had no special fitness, simply because such a man was recognized as a useful and competent party leader, and wanted a place that would permit him to devote more time to political matters than
if he were engaged in private affairs.

The president, with some emphasis,
asserted his belief and adherence to the principle that when a man was elected or appointed to office he became the representative and servant of the people, and not of the party with which he happened to vote.
It was impossible for a man constantly engaged in political controversies to remove bias from his mind, and the only way to secure a non-partisan administration of public trusts was to divorce official power from political leadership. He had reached this conclusion from his own experience, and intended to remove all ground for criticism in this direction while he had any authority. When a man accepted office under him he must expect to abstain from active participation in political affairs. He might express his views as freely as he chose in a respectful, tolerant way, but officeholders could not be political leaders and campaign managers without doing injustice to the interests they were intrusted with, or provoking hostility in their opponents.

THE BUCKEYE MUDDLE.

Election Officers Who Need a Guardian—
Cincinnati Situation.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 19.—The board of canvassers for this (Franklin) county met,
Saturday, and began the work of counting the votes. Objections were made to the returns from the Fourth and Thirteenth wards of this city because the judges had not properly filled out the tally-sheets so as to tell what ward or precinct it was, and neglected to certify to the returns. An attempt was made to throw out the returns,
but the board adjourned with the question
still pending.

The greatest of interest is felt here over the result, as both the wards are strongly Republican, and if the returns should not be counted it would not only result in the defeat of almost the entire Republican county ticket, but would give the Democrats another member of the legislature.
It is claimed by the Democrats that if they secure this member they will have a majority on joint ballot. There is a Cincinnati contingent in the city which,
it is said, has been making it quite interesting for one of the members of the board of canvassers who is thought to be mercenary. It is charged by the Republicans that the sale has already been consummated,
and that they will be cheated out of a member. The Democrats are equally positive in their claim that under the law the board has no right to count these questionable precincts.

Both parties are now claiming the legislature by a majority of 3 on joint ballot,
and it is believed the contest may not end
till the members come here in January, and probably have a row for the possession of the halls as well as the organization. The Republicans claim that the legislature

stands 75 Republicans and 72 Democrats without Hamilton county, giving them a majority of 3 on joint ballot. Of the claims of the Republicans, one member from Franklin and another from Hardin and a senator from Montgomery, Preble's district,
are claimed by the Democrats.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 19.—It is announced here that the county clerk has determined to certify the election of the Democratic senatorial and legislative tickets
in this county, and this means contests in both houses.

The efforts of the citizen's committee of 100 were rewarded Saturday by the arrest of John Birmingham and John Tansey, Democratic election judges
at precinct A, Fourth ward, for violations of the election law. Inspector of Police Mullen suspended the policeman who made the arrests as soon as they were brought in. Frank Kelley, chief deputy sheriff, and a son-in-law of Sheriff Bore-ford, has also been arrested on a charge of leading a gang of repeaters on election day.
Pat Kelley and John Miner, arrested on the charge of taking the ballot box from the Nineteenth ward, waived examination and were held for indictment.

Three Democratic clubs held meeting
Saturday night and adopted resolutions charging gross frauds by Republicans in the recent election in Hamilton county, in debauching judges and clerks and in purchasing votes. They declared in favor of prompt prosecution of all offenders. To this end the Jefferson club appropriated $2,500, the Duckworth club $3,000, and the West End club $1,500.

The Lincoln club has just completed calculation of the entire Hamilton county vote
except seven precincts, which were given on Hoadly's vote. This shows the election of one senator certainly—probably two—by the Republicans and four representatives, probably five. The calculations extended over twenty-four hours without intermission, and are believed to be correct. If they hold, the Republicans will have the next senate, the house being already assured.

Close of the Chicago Exposition.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—The inter-state exposition which has been running in this city for the past forty days, was brought to a close at 11 o'clock Saturday evening, after the most successful season on record. Secretary J. P. Reynolds stated to a reporter that the paying attendance averaged 8,000 per day
throughout the entire season, and the total receipts would aggregate $10,000 more than any previous exposition. Counting free admissions, over 500,000 persons had visited the exposition this year.

Robbing the Brazilian Government.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—The Commercial Bulletin has letters from Para containing an expose of alleged frauds on the Brazilian government by a Paris rubber house intimately connected with a New York firm.
The firm, it is said, has evaded the export duty on rubber to the extent of $1,000,000
the last two or three years, through the connivance of Brazilian officials.

Capt. Eads' Ship Railway.

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 19.—Judge Cochran, confidential adviser of Capt. Eads, has returned from Mexico. He says Diaz favors the Tehuantepec ship railway and has granted valuable extensions to the original charter of the company, namely, a gift of 2,500,000 acres and guarantee of one-third of the net revenue of the railway for fifteen years after completion.

Death of a Noted Printer.

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio, Oct. 19.—John Henkle, foreman of the Portsmouth Printing company, which issues both The Blade and Tribune, died at noon Thursday, aged 29
and married. He was a wonderful printer.
In October, 1882, on a wager, he accomplished the unprecedented feat of setting 17,010 ems in nine hours. He was in every sense a master of the art.

A Lewd Woman's Wealth.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19.—The will of Alice Kelly, a well-known member of the demimonde, was probated Friday. It divides her fortune of $50,000 among her three sisters
and two nieces, all of them respectable women, connected with families of high standing in Chicago, Centralia, St. Louis, and East St. Louis.

An Electricity-Propelled Yacht.

[San Francisco Chronicle.]

There are certain drawbacks to the pleasure of yachting that recent inventions will tend to remove. In a sailing-boat calm weather upsets all calculations, and the odor connected with steam craft is always disagreeable, and especially to the ladies.
At Millwall, near London, a trial is now being made with a small yacht, which will be propelled by electrical power. The boat is thirty-six feet in length by seven feet in breadth. It is constructed of galvanized steel, lined inside with wood and lead.
The accumulators are placed below the floor of the boat, so that with the exception of a small compartment aft for the dynamo, the whole of the space is available for passengers. Two masts and a full suit of sails are also fitted for use when required. It is intended to take the yacht on a trial trip from Dover to Calais, when it is fully anticipated that a good speed will be obtained, and in such a case this new propelling power will be applied to craft of larger dimensions.

More Than Two Sides.

[John Ruskin.]

I never met with a question yet which did not need for the right solution of it at least one positive and one negative answer, like an equation of the first degree. Mostly matters of any consequence are three-sided
or four-sided or polygonal, and the trotting round a polygon is severe work for people any way stiff in their opinions. For myself, I am never satisfied that I have handled a subject properly till I have contradicted myself at least three times.

Ruskin's Ideal Horse-Race.

[Exchange.]

Mr. Ruskin says that "horse-racing should be conducted without whip or spur and only
for a laurel crown, without any money."
The only race which approaches this ideal takes place in Siena, where the reward for the winning horse consists in a public feast
in which the horse is toasted and partake
himself of a bottle of wine.

A Novel feature in Investments.

The whole country after having undergone a period of depression is now asking itself, what business has least been affected and uninjured?

Such a business, industry, or corporation, that can make a better showing now than before the crisis attracts the attention of capital, merits the confidence of investors and is being eagerly sought for.

There is such a business, and it has heretofore been monopolized by English and Scotch capital until some three hundred millions have been invested in the Ranch and Cattle business of this great country.

Foremost amongst the strongest, richest and most successful American Companies stand the United States Land and Investment Company, 145 Broadway, New York, which is now offering $500,000
First Mortgage 6% 10 Year Bonds, for subscription at 90 cash, or at par, upon a novel installment feature which appeals to the Farmer as well as the Banker, the Clerk and Mechanic as well as the Millionaire, and to all who desire to invest their savings, at better rates of interest than any bank will allow.

This Company issues certificates of indebtedness in One and Five Dollars, each representing an installment, and when the investor has purchased $50 of these certificates he becomes entitled to a $100
Gold Bond, First Mortgage, bearing 6% interest, which he can obtain upon presenting his certificates or forwarding them
by letter to the Company's Office, at 145 Broadway, N. Y.

The remaining $50 due on the Bond being payable to the Company in monthly installments not exceeding $5.

The bond commences to draw interest
upon delivery the same as if fully paid.
In addition to which the company gives
as a Bonus, Free, one fully paid up share of stock of the value of $25.

Those desiring to buy their Bonds out right for cash can do so at 10 % discount
in $100, $500 or $1000 Bonds and receive one, five or ten shares of stock Free. The Bonds are secured by property owned absolutely by the Company, estimated to be worth $3,000,000, and this money received from sale of Bonds will be invested in Cattle, the income from which it is estimated will yield 80% upon the stock after paying 6% on the Bonds.

Applications are being forwarded in great numbers daily, and all those who desire to subscribe should send at once for Prospectuses and full information to
The United States Land Investment
Company, 145 Broadway, New York.—
